REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

Rudolph H. Wyner

People who run hospitals today, particularly teaching hospitals like ours, live troubled lives. They have all the problems that affect modern business — increasing costs, labor shortages, and financing — and in meeting these problems they run into possible dissatisfaction of the public when they try to solve these difficulties in part by an increase in hospital charges. They are always confronted with the needs of improving and increasing facilities, purchasing of new equipment, and other developments that result from the rapidly expanding horizon of medical knowledge. These problems are present for all hospitals, but more emphatically in the case of the teaching hospitals because we have in addition to patient care, educational responsibilities and the need for adding new knowledge to medical science through research.

Sometimes people have said to me, "If a teaching hospital, which carries on extensive research as at Beth Israel is more expensive to operate than a hospital in which there is no teaching and research, why do you not concentrate on patient care and reduce the amount of teaching and research, and simultaneously reduce your expense and resulting deficits?" The answer is that good patient care, and teaching and research are synonymous. You cannot have one without the other. It is obvious that a physician who was very well qualified ten years ago and continued to treat his patients without contact with a teaching hospital where new discoveries in medicine could be brought to his attention, would hardly be able to give satisfactory care now to the patients who come to him for aid. Since he was acquiring no new knowledge, he might be merely perpetuating the errors that existed in medical treatment ten years ago and his patients suffer thereby. In contrast, visiting and full-time physicians at Beth Israel, because of the extensive programs of teaching and research, are always exposed to the significant developments in medicine and thereby are able to acquire the knowledge that enables them to offer superior patient care.

Beth Israel is conscious of its great responsibility as a teaching and research Hospital. It is proud of its close affiliation with the Harvard Medical School and the Tufts School of Medicine, and of the fact that it is the only general hospital in the Harvard Medical Center complex. Its Trustees have recognized that in order to continue Beth Israel's development, it is necessary to add vitally needed new construction and to renovate some of the existing facilities. Accordingly, the Board of Trustees with full support of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies has authorized the raising of capital funds in the sum of $7,500,000.

The decision to go ahead was made with full knowledge of the difficulties to be faced. But the Trustees, regarding health as a fundamental necessity for the pursuit of our happiness and for the improvement of our country's welfare and progress, felt confident that the community would support our undertaking to raise this substantial sum.

Beth Israel has played a very important part as a teaching hospital in the medical advances of recent years that have added so much to the well-being of all of us. That these advances have been rapid can be seen in the fact that almost 90% of the prescriptions given out by physicians today were unknown ten years ago. I am sure that many of us appreciate — in a most significant way — what these advances have meant. Some of us are alive today because of the new techniques and new medications that have been developed in the last decade, and in a most substantial way Beth Israel has contributed to bringing these benefits to us. As an example, in the last few months, one of the Chiefs of Beth Israel has received a high award because of his contributions to knowledge of heart disease, and another participated as one of the principal members of a team that developed a vaccine that will help to eliminate another of the more serious diseases of childhood.

Two additional contributions were made recently to patient care through research at Beth Israel — the development of a machine to measure the blood volume quickly and accurately, and further refinements in the cardiac pacemaker which make it virtually ambulatory. With goals and results such as these, it is obviously folly for the Trustees and the community to hesitate in going forward.

Beth Israel seeks to accomplish these purposes through its intimate relationship with the Harvard Medical School, and its affiliations with Tufts University School of Medicine and other great educational institutions. It can confidently look forward to maintaining its position in the medical world, counting on the leadership of its administrative staff, the devotion of its Chiefs of Service and medical staff — the splendid support of its Trustees, and of its vibrant Women's Auxiliary and other affiliated organizations — and of the community we strive to serve.

Rudolph H. Wyner

REPORT OF THE GENERAL DIRECTOR

In this, my first year of service as General Director of Beth Israel Hospital, I am happy to report that despite numerous problems, we have made substantial progress. We were able to focus on current key administrative problems within the Hospital and to lay the groundwork for expansion to meet the challenges of the future.

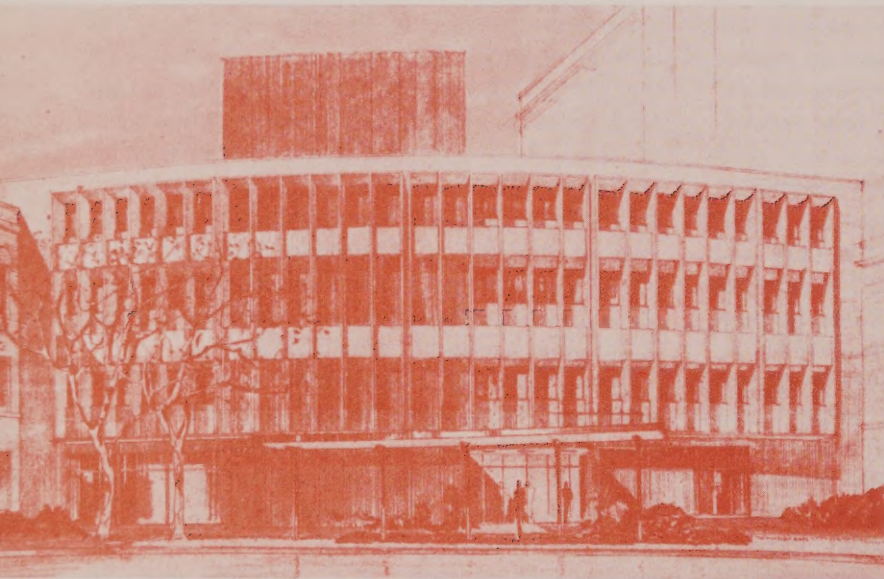

These achievements were not brought about by any one person. Rather they were made possible by real teamwork — in spirit and in action. The Officers, the Board of Trustees and its Committees, the Women's Auxiliary, the Administrative Staff and Department Heads, and the Medical Staff, all combined to make 1959-60 a year in which we re-focused our objectives and took the necessary steps to implement them.

The keystones of Beth Israel Hospital's existence are: the highest quality of patient care, teaching and research. Sponsored by the Jewish community, we take responsibility for offering the best in medical care to the entire community, without regard to race, creed or ability to pay. In providing care for some 35,000 patients annually, we make a real impact upon the lives of many more thousands of people in this community.

We are a teaching hospital — engaged in the education of 1200 students each year. We try to teach how to care for patients and how to care about patients — and are proud of the role we play in this regard.

We are a research hospital, conducting research into diseases, their effects upon man, and seeking new ways to combat them. Some measure of the extent of this research is the fact that almost a million dollars per year is provided for research under the sponsorship of various granting agencies — a tribute to the caliber of the research activity and to the leadership in our research departments.

In all of our research and teaching activities, our basic guide is the fact that these activities can only be as good as the patient care which is given in the hospital. We cannot teach doctors to be good doctors, nurses to be good nurses, social workers to be good social workers unless we can show them, and have them participate in, good patient care. In our setting, therefore, teaching and research must always be seen as enhancing our program of care of the patient.

To give substance to these basic medical guideposts Beth Israel Hospital continued to develop its strong ties with the Harvard Medical School and other educational institutions with which it is affiliated, and took several major policy decisions in 1960.

We decided that all of our major services should be headed by full-time Chiefs of Service with appropriate faculty status. Thus, in the future, Obstetrics and Gynecology will be combined as a single service, with a full-time Chief, to replace Dr. Harold H. Rosenfield, who resigned this year. Proposals for changing the faculty status of the Radiologist-in-Chief and Pathologist-in-Chief to full-time faculty have also been approved and forwarded to Dean George Packer Berry of the Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Martin D. Keller was appointed Director of the Division of Clinical Services and he has already provided forward-looking leadership in maintaining the caliber of this important coordinative service. In Public Relations the appointment of a full-time Director, Louis Stein, resulted in significant progress in a very short time.

Intensive efforts have also been made to strengthen our Nursing Service and our School of Nursing. Housekeeping and maintenance functions have also been stepped up. In Personnel administration, we continued to adopt the most modern practices.

In addition to these moves, our relations with the Combined Jewish Philanthropies continued to be strengthened. Some progress was made toward further inter-agency cooperation, and we hope that this trend will accelerate.

One of the highlights of the past year came when the Board of Trustees authorized the initiation of a capital funds drive to help keep Beth Israel Hospital in the forefront of the great teaching hospitals of this country. By this action the Board reaffirmed the concept that this Hospital will keep pace with the advance of medical knowledge, and that it will keep faith with the founders of the Hospital who declared that "the function of the Hospital is to provide medical care and to carry on such educational, philanthropic and scientific activities and functions as are a part of efficient modern hospital service."

The drive, for $7,500,000, as Mr. Wyner mentioned in his report, is headed by Irving W. Rabb, as Chairman of the Development Fund Committee. Mr. Morris Stern was appointed Director of the Development Fund and the preparations for the campaign are being made.

The development program envisages the construction of new facilities and the extensive renovation of certain older buildings. The new construction will consist of a new three-and-a-half story and basement building, addition of a fourth floor to the Yamins Research Building, and construction of a new facility for expanded diagnostic and therapeutic radiology.

The renovations will see the complete remodeling of the Outpatient Building and the Emergency Ward, as well as the extensive renovation of five floors of the North Building. The fund also includes an allocation for the acquisition of property adjacent to the Hospital.

All of this activity was gratifying and exciting. Many, many problems remain in the execution of all the plans we have made. But with the continued teamwork of the great elements which make up this Hospital, the community may rest assured that Beth Israel will continue to afford leadership in the medical world and be a vital part of the Harvard Medical Center and the Boston community.

Sidney S. Lee M.D.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

Mrs. Norman L. Cahners

(Remarks made at the Beth Israel Hospital
Annual Dinner Meeting, November 20, 1960)

This is a great hour in the history of our hospital. We are standing at the threshold of a new era, and we recognize the great responsibilities which the program being unfolded here tonight entails for all of us.

Therefore, I think it is only fitting that I should use this opportunity to express some of the thoughts which I am sure the women of the Auxiliary would want me to convey to our Trustees, and to the men in our community who will bear the main burden of this great campaign.

First and foremost, we are proud of the decision you have made to keep the standards high, and to provide your families and your community with the finest possible medical care.

We know, that in facing the tremendous challenge which lies ahead, you will have many days of discouragement and deep concern, but we want you to know from the outset that we will be with you all the way — and that we have complete confidence in your ability to achieve your objectives.

Tonight we have heard the chairman of the campaign explain the needs of our hospital, and we who have actually witnessed those needs — through thousands of hours of volunteer service — are fully aware of the vital necessity for improving the facilities.

We have watched our hospital grow to great and important stature, and — through the Auxiliary — your women have always been there when needed.

However, we do not intend to stand on our record. Rather we intend to build on that record.

Now, when we are needed more than ever before, we intend to help more than ever before — not with just moral support, but financially as well.

We know this will mean more hours of service in our Thrift Shop and in our Gift Shop — more determined soliciting for new life members and annual members; it will mean increasing the enrollment in the Beth Israel Babies Alumni Association — encouraging wider participation in the Remembrance Fund — as well as stepping up the intensity of our newest project — Friends of the Outpatient Department and Emergency Unit — and, most immediate of all — it will mean an all-out drive to make this year's Annual Luncheon the most successful in the long history of that important fund-raising event.

And the Auxiliary is ready for this increased effort. The spirit and enthusiasm within the organization have never been greater — and the morale has never been higher than at the present time.

Our board meetings are regularly attended by well over 100 women, and just two weeks ago at our general meeting over 700 women were present.

In view of the competition our Auxiliary faces from other organizations, I think it's a fine tribute to our hospital — and to the place it holds in the hearts and minds of the women in our community — that today our Auxiliary has more members — is providing more hours of volunteer service — and is raising more money than ever before.

There is a well-known expression to the effect that "behind every successful man there's a woman". And the women of your Auxiliary want you to know that we're right behind you — ready, willing and able to help make this campaign a success.

And, as tangible evidence of our confidence that — together — we will go over the top, it gives me great pleasure to present to you, Mr. Wyner, this check from the Women's Auxiliary for fifty thousand dollars.

A CITY WITHIN A CITY

THERE ARE MANY CLOCKS IN BETH ISRAEL HOSPITAL. STOP THEM AT ANY HOUR — 10:00 A.M., NOON OR MIDNIGHT. STOP THEM FOR JUST A MINUTE AND CUT AWAY THE OUTSIDE WALLS OF THIS CITY-WITHIN-A-CITY. NOW YOU CAN SEE INTO THE ROOMS, THE WARDS, THE LABS, EVERYWHERE. FOR ONE BRIEF MOMENT YOU CAN SEE SOME OF THE 1100 DOCTORS, NURSES, TECHNICIANS, ARTISANS, ADMINISTRATORS, AT THEIR WORK — PROVIDING THE BEST CARE TO PATIENTS, RESEARCHING THE MEDICAL UNKNOWN, PASSING ON THE LIGHT OF KNOWLEDGE TO YOUNG PHYSICIANS.

Last year almost 35,000 people were helped by Beth Israel through one or more of its many services. Nearly 15,000 were in-patients, with a total of more than 119,000 patient days. Through its close affiliation with Harvard and Tufts Medical Schools, Simmons College School of Social Work, Boston University School of Nursing and through its own educational programs for nurses, x-ray and laboratory technicians, dietitians, dental assistants and others, the Hospital helped in the professional education of many students. Through its intern, resident and postgraduate courses, the Hospital provided advanced training for many physicians and dentists. Altogether, some 1200 persons received meaningful professional educational experiences at Beth Israel Hospital in 1960.

A CITY WITHIN A CITY

AT 10:00 A.M. an ambulance stops at the Emergency Ward entrance of the Hospital. A middle aged man who had fallen from a ladder is carried inside. Quickly, the Hospital mobilizes to help him. He is examined by a team of doctors and nurses. He is taken to the Radiology Department where a battery of doctors and technicians takes a series of x-rays to determine the extent of injury. In the Hospital's Blood Bank his blood is analyzed for type. In a short time the story is complete: the patient has a fracture of the left leg between the knee and ankle. The team goes to work again, this time to correct the injury.

This man is one of almost 14,000 patients who received assistance last year from the Emergency Ward. This represented an increase of almost 700 patients over the previous year, and almost three times the load carried by the Emergency Ward only five years ago. The x-rays were among the 20,000 made at the Hospital last year for all services. And the blood type was one of many thousands such determinations made during 1960. In addition, the Bank provided 4,000 pints of blood for transfusions.

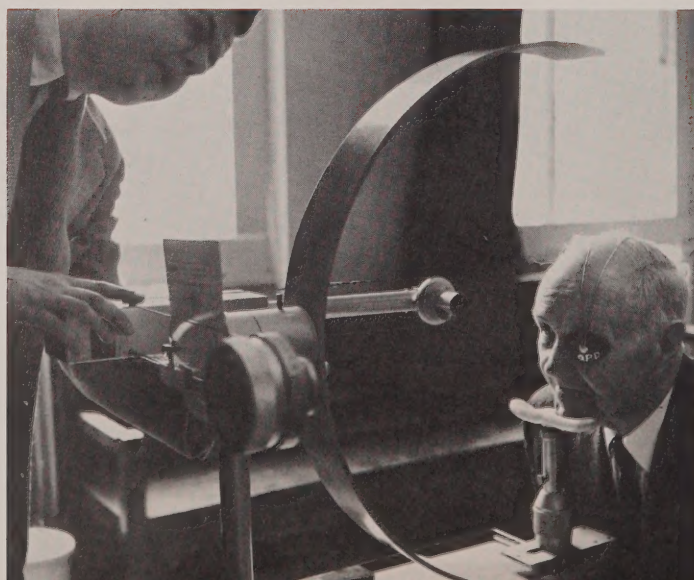

AT 10:00 A.M. a patient is wheeled into one of the operating rooms. Under the huge reflector light a team of surgeons, residents, anesthesiologists and nurses is ready for the operation. Here is where the long years of training, the skillful techniques, the calm decisions, the modern instruments all come together to help the patient.

This patient is one of 5500 who were operated on in the main Operating Suite at Beth Israel Hospital in 1960. He may have been one of those who received the benefits of new procedures developed or modified by the Department of Surgical Research. Thus the new machine for accurate measurement of blood volume may have helped to protect him from shock by indicating the need for transfusion at the proper moment. Or he may have been one of the patients who benefitted from the cardiac Pacemaker. Or he may have been helped by the findings of any of the other basic and clinical research projects which go on continually at the Hospital.

AT 10:00 A.M. technicians in laboratories scattered throughout the Hospital are conducting numerous tests. Some are simple, others complex, but all have great importance in the diagnosis and treatment of disease.

The laboratory tests were among almost 232,000 performed last year at the Hospital, helping to provide better care for patients. The research investigations were part of the comprehensive program conducted by Beth Israel Hospital. Such research has already been productive of great medical gains and will continue to yield important knowledge in the future.

A CITY WITHIN A CITY

AT 10:00 A.M. the cry of a new-born infant is heard. A father looks through a glass partition and sees his new daughter for the first time. A mother, accompanied by a nurse holding her week-old son, waits for her husband to meet her and take his family home.

The new-born infant was one of 2600 who came into the world at Beth Israel Hospital last year. He was one of more than 25,000 born at the Hospital during the past ten years.

AT 10:00 A.M. a mother played — for the fifth time — her four year old daughter's favorite record. The only difference was that she was not at home; she was staying with her child in the Pediatric Ward.

The child was one of 242 youngsters treated as an in-patient last year by the Pediatric Service. And the mother was one of the many who took advantage of the Hospital's policy of allowing mothers to stay overnight with their children. And all of the mothers and children were the beneficiaries of the fact that Beth Israel Hospital — alone of the entire family of Harvard Medical Center hospitals — offers maternity and pediatric facilities under one roof.

AT 10:00 A.M. a man in the Diabetic Clinic is being shown how to administer insulin to himself. A woman listens as an Allergy Clinic doctor describes the results of a series of tests. An elderly lady learns to walk again with the aid of the therapist in the Physical Medicine Clinic. An adolescent boy watches as a nurse changes his dressing in the Surgical Clinic.

This is the Out-Patient Department, where last year almost 9,000 people made over 58,000 visits to more than 30 clinics. It is the department which furnishes medical care for those who can pay a minimal fee, or nothing at all.

AT 10:00 A.M. a volunteer worker takes a newly admitted patient to her room. Another makes a sale in the gift shop. Others are helping transport patients inside the Hospital, servicing library and gift carts, working as Out-Patient Clinic secretaries, typing records and letters in many hospital offices.

They are part of the Volunteer Service, consisting of men and women who give their time to perform useful tasks in the care of patients. Last year 576 volunteers gave more than 56,000 hours of such service to the Hospital.

AT 10:00 A.M. a teen-aged girl, after weeks of near silence, suddenly sobs and begins to tell her psychiatrist about the terrible fears which beset her. Another psychiatrist is saying goodbye to a man; it is his last visit and he faces the future with much more confidence than when he first began therapy.

The girl and the man were two of the several hundred people helped last year by the Psychiatric Service. The Service also carried on research and teaching programs which will help shed light on many emotional problems.

A CITY WITHIN A CITY

AT 10:00 A.M. a social worker tells a worried man that his three young children will be cared for by a temporary homemaker while his wife undergoes surgery. Another social worker is discussing with a physician the social and environmental factors pertaining to the medical problems of one of his patients; the physician now knows that the man needs help from outside the family in order to carry out the course of post-hospital treatment which he had outlined.

These people were among the many helped by the Social Service Department. The major aim of the service is to bring the social and environmental aspects into the picture, and thereby assist the physician in the care of the patient.

AT 10:00 A.M. a laundry worker unloads a cart of freshly laundered linen. The Information Desk answers the telephone: "Condition improved," the clerk tells the anxious relative at the other end. The chef begins the preparation of lunch for the patients. A maintenance man finishes installing new lighting. The receiving department checks in a shipment of food. The housekeeping department finishes the washing of beds and walls on another floor of the Hospital.

These are the people behind the scenes. They make the machinery hum and the wheels turn. Last year they: laundered over 1,000 tons of linen, served almost 680,000 meals (including 110,000 Kosher meals), used almost 700,000 gallons of fuel, washed and cleaned miles of hospital corridors and rooms.

AT 10:00 A.M. a doctor and nurse are with a patient. The significance of this particular consultation is that it is being held in the patient's home, some six miles from the Hospital. In another house, in another section of the city, a social worker talks with a patient and his wife. And in still another house, a physical therapist is teaching a woman how to walk with her new crutches.

These skilled professionals are all part of the Home Care Team, which provides medical care to certain patients in their own homes. Last year a total of more than 2,500 such visits were made to 64 patients for a total of 13,371 patient days of care. The average duration of stay of all patients on Home Care was 208 days.

AT 10:00 A.M. — and every hour throughout every day of every year — this is Beth Israel Hospital. A Hospital which was born to meet a great social need, and, through the years continues to grow to meet the changing needs of patient care, teaching and research.
